Dear Friends

Following the chaos of Ireland with our last production we now head back to a more genteel time (or do we?!) with our December production of Vanity Fair adapted from the novel by William Makepeace Thackeray by Declan Donnellan. This is being directed for us by Ian Guy with performances on 4th-6th December with our usual curtain up time of 7.30pm out at Longdown Village Hall.

Vanity Fair chronicles the intertwined lives of two contrasting young women, the ambitious but morally flexible Becky Sharp and the naïve and kind Amelia Sedley, as they navigate British Society against the backdrop of the Napoleonic Wars. The story follows Becky's determined efforts to rise in social status and financial security through wit, charm and a lot of cunning, contrasted with Amelia's more sheltered and conventional path and things don't always turn out the way they were meant to!

To join the upper classes please book your seats and your pasties for this energetic and funny romp through the years on the slip below. Pasty munchers please note that they will now sell at £2.50 each.
